Lynmouth Tower and Harbour. Lynmouth, the most beautiful spot on the North Devon Coast, nestles at the foot of a steep cliff, at the summit of which is its companion village of Linton. The East and West Lynton are connected, since Southey, "from the vale between the two is a precipice great enough to roll other hard coaches, and the river below, the little village . . . this alone would constitute a view beautiful enough to repay the weariness of a long journey."

Lynmouth Tower and Harbour. Lynmouth, the most beautiful town in the North Devon Coast, nestles at the foot of a steep cliff, at the summit of which is its companion village at Lynton. The East and West Lyns join here and, says Southey, "from the hill between the two is a prospect most magnificent—on either hand combes, and the river before the little village . . . this alone would constitute a view beautiful enough to repay the weariness of a long journey."
